CREATIVE Spotlight –Display Materials

Editorial submissions for the Creative Spotlight –Display Materials will cover the wide array of display materials available to display designers to create point-of-purchase displays. The story will cover display materials for creating temporary and permanent point-of-purchase displays and signage. It will highlight the latest developments in display materials, from new substrates developed for new digital printing systems, to new environmentally friendly display materials. We invite you to participate in this feature by submitting a full color image of a material that your firm offers for the point-of-purchase industry. The image may show a sample of the display material, or show a finished p.o.p. display that utilizes the material. Enclosed is a form to use in supplying us with information and images for this article.
